

no cost. The Resource Fair and the launch of the Parenting Resource Network coincides with the Week of the Young Child, designated by the National Association for Education of Young Children (NAEYC). Week of the Young Child celebrates young children and thanks early childhood teachers and everyone involved in the care and education of young children. It is celebrated across the country by hundreds of local organizations working to improve opportunities for all young children.

"Early learning experiences are crucial to the growth and development of young children," said Sheryl Smith, Associate Executive Director of the Friedberg JCC. "The goal of the Parenting Resource Network is to become a 'one stop shop' for parents on the South Shore to help them find the resources they need to do the best job they can."

The Friedberg JCC is a non-profit, full-service, community center offering programs for infants through senior adults. The JCC is a beneficiary agency of UJA-Federation of New York. For more information about the JCC, visit the website at www.friedbergjcc.org.